DETAILED ACTION

1. Information Disclosure Statement filed on 3/12/04 has been received.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 3. Claims 1-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Casellas (U. S. Patent no. 3,406,521) in view of Pauliukonis (U. S. Patent no. 3,940,937).

Casellas discloses: outlet valve 29, vacuum powered actuator 37,26,33, (when the vacuum fails spring 45 will push the piston 26 back closing the outlet valve.)

Casellas does not use a stepped bore and piston as a pressure intensifier. Casellas uses the difference between the master cylinder piston cross section and the cross section of piston 27 as an intensifier. Pauliukonis teaches the use of a stepped bore and piston as a pressure intensifier. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a stepped bore and piston as a pressure intensifier as taught by Pauliukonis in the device of Casellas in order to generate a higher pressure with less force applied to the piston.
